every day. Going to share what parents, faculty and staff have said today with my community. Board got it earlier this week. Want to stir the pot in a blog later today to get more folks involved in tomorrow nights board meeting. In leading change, you always create to use a given crisis. Give time and info to the audience to wrestle with the data and info you are using in decision making, let it simmer a while, then they come back and ask you to solve it..... well I hope it works that way :-)

If he is saying that masks are not necessary (at all times), that recess is ok (minus hugging, kissing and 'rasslin') and that we can have dining in congregate setting, then why in the world do we need a plan?

Our team takes great pride in making sure that our buildings are clean. Our teachers have stock piles of wipes and hand sanitizer in their classrooms. Or cafeteria workers use appropriate solutions to sanitize eating surfaces in between lunch periods.

I think having some added protocols to address the medically fragile and to make sure that the in between time cleanings are improved, we can reopen school in a semi normal fashion.

I may be going "off reservation" with this, but it's my heritage and my choleric personality wears thin with all of this nonsensical double mindedness.

Colleagues,

I spent some time with Dr. Damsker this afternoon reviewing our questions. He offers the attached suggested considerations. Recall, PDE's plan describes these as possible considerations. These would be the local County Health Department's possible considerations for your attention. The feedback is in the template released on Friday by PDE (rather than in the original Q&A document I sent to him last week). Take a look and provide me with any feedback you may have specific to his possible considerations.

We can also discuss on Thursday at 2:00.

My best,

Mark
