Bucks County School Reopening Guidance

Bucks County school districts Interpreted guidelines loosely in adopting 3 feet social distancing standards with two students per bus seat. The language in the guidance "to the extent possible:" is where the district must accommodate the guidelines as much as possible, but they are not hard, fast rules. In other words, districts will have legal and regulatory flexibility. However, I don't think districts are going to be judged on the basis of legal or regulatory flexibility; districts will be judged based upon the various constituencies that they have within the school district and I can assure that districts will, notwithstanding their best efforts, alienate one or more of those constituencies regardless of the terms of the district's adopted plan.
